

Prof. Dr. Hanns-Peter Knaebel

President & CEO Röchling Group Medical Division

Prof. Dr. Hanns-Peter Knaebel studied medicine in Ulm and Tübingen in Germany and at Yale University in New Haven, Connecticut, USA. In 1995, he completed his studies, obtained his doctorate and began his medical work in the Department of Surgery at Heidelberg University Hospital. From 2002 to 2007 he held the position of a Chief Physician. In 2006, he graduated from Salzburg University in Austria with an MBA, where he studied parallel to his work in Heidelberg. In that same year, he qualified as Professor at the University of Heidelberg's Medical Faculty.

In 2007, Knaebel became the Head of the Clinical Science Department at Aesculap and, shortly after that he was entrusted with global responsibility for Marketing and Sales, before he was appointed as a member of the Executive Board of Aesculap AG in 2008, for which he was Chairman from 2009 to 2017.

At the same time, Knaebel was a member of the Executive Board of the family-owned company B. Braun Melsungen AG. In 2010, Ruprecht-Karls-University Heidelberg appointed him as an Associate Professor. Since 2012 he is also a member of the University Council over which he has presided since 2015. Knaebel also serves as an advisor to various bodies of the regional government of Baden-Württemberg.

In October 2017, Prof. Dr. Hanns-Peter Knaebel joined the Röchling Group. Until the turn of the year, he was Vice-chairman and CEO of the Medical division. Since 1 January 2018, Knaebel is CEO of the Röchling Group.